

Captain Nick Hine
Royal Navy

Director Coalition Naval Advisor and Training Team (CNATT) and Senior Naval Advisor to Head of Iraqi Navy

Captain Nick Hine joined the Royal Navy in 1984.

Captain Hine has served in a number of submarine and surface ships; most notably in Command of HMS BLACKWATER, and 'hunter killer' nuclear submarines HMS TRIUMPH and HMS TALENT.

Captain Hine has served in equipment procurement and support Commands, working both in the Ministry of Defence and for the Directorate of Equipment and Support. He has also taught at the United Kingdom Defence Academy and the Joint Services Command and Staff College.

He has served in operational theaters in Northern Ireland, Kosovo and the Middle East.

Captain Hine has a first degree in Management and Systems Science (City, London), a Masters in Defence Studies (KCL, London) and an MBA (Cranfield).

Captain Hine was appointed to his current position in January 2009.

